Search Catalogue for a particular item

Catalogue can hold thousands of catalogue items, helping you keep track of products that aren't captured in Inventory. Store catalogue items as formatted or unformatted text and cross-reference them to other Pronto Xi modules so you can search for catalogue items via inventory enquiries. Dynamically create new items as normal inventory master records.

Each catalogue item contains unlimited information, including technical product specifications, supplier or manufacturer information, prices and part numbers.

Catalogue also allows you to create supplier contracts and link these to multiple catalogue items. Once the contract is activated, the agreed prices and contract numbers are captured against the individual companies, and the agreed supplier is given priority-one status.

Set expiry dates for each supplier contract, and generate reports to review existing and potential contracts.
